

The Hotel Business

When the present owners of the Burlington hotel took over its management four years ago it was noted chiefly for its location. Today it is the most popular hotel in Alliance and has the largest share of the commercial trade, local trade and infrequent transient business. The present owners took out all the old furniture, modernized the building throughout, remodeled the interior, until today, those who come in after an absence of several years hardly know the place.

The big business enjoyed by the Burlington is the result of a carefully planned effort to please the traveling public and all who desire to patronize a hotel. Your mother, wife or daughter will feel just as much at home here and just as comfortable as though they were in their own home. Carefully trained and competent help makes staying at the Burlington a pleasure. Your demands are always promptly attended to.

The success of this hotel is not due to any one person but to every member of the Lockwood family, for all have put forth their best efforts and constant attention to build up a steady, constant business. Every detail of this business is looked after with care. The wide acquaintance enjoyed by Mr. Lockwood, Senior, and Guy Lockwood formed during several years' experience on the road himself proved a good foundation upon which to build this business. It is true that mistakes have been made during the last four years but any who were offended have found that it never was done intentionally, and are now our best friends.

We invite you to come to this hotel and see what we furnish. Our prices have never changed since taking charge and you can get good service here for $2.00 per day. Our rapidly increasing business makes it necessary for us to plan on putting an addition on to our building in the near future. Persons coming from out of town to attend the Stockmen's Convention and Firemen's Tournament should write in advance for rooms.

You will find excellent service in our dining room and our cafe. Popular prices prevail. Special attention is always given to serving parties and banquets.
